

relaxes the moral sense and throws a sensual or adventurous glamor over an aspect of life from which a decent young man would ordinarily recoil, and its continued use stimulates the senses at the very moment when the soul is most in need of moral inhibitions are lessened."

TEACH THE CHILD.

Bishop Hicks speaking in Lincoln recently said: "We all agreed—there was no question of argument any longer—that children were better without any strong drink, and the only thing that had to be done was to teach children the reasons why, and instill them to abstinence in their earlier years, so that when they grew up they would remain free from it."

ENCOURAGE SACRIFICE.

The Praying League Secretary had a beautiful little daughter who went away to Jesus some years ago.

This sweet little girl when allowed a taste of meat was particularly partial to lamb.

One day she said, "Mamma, how do we get meat?" I explained that animals were killed to make meat, further explaining the nature of each kind of meat.

"Do they kill deer little lambs to make lamb, mamma?" Then when she understood her little face flushed and she sobbed bitterly, saying, "I will never eat it again." When she was brought to the table she always inquired and always refused the lamb. She thought by so doing she protected the lambs, and much as she liked the meal mads herself to become a vegetarian.

Little children can be made to do this; the social gloss has injured other little ones, and so understand the true principle of total abstinence.

DEATH IN THE CUP.

New York, a few years ago, furnished a fresh illustration of the fact that drink, like death, "loves a shining mark"—and in this case both hit the mark. One morning the papers published the news that a man had been murdered in New York, it was about a woman. The victim was the son of a world-famed statesman, and had himself worn "crowns of pride" in diplomacy, in finance and in society; but in life his crowns suddenly faded. His widow's death was the shock he had brought to his wife and his family. His bullet had proved a bullet to shoot his loved ones to the heart.

THIRTY YEARS DRUNK.

Visitors Leed Meetings.

On Thursday Brantford had a visit from Captain McEvoy, formerly of this city. On Saturday a man who has been a drunkard for thirty years knelt at the Cross for salvation.

On Sunday Ensign Hobbs, supported by Mrs. Adeline Huddleston, Capt. McEvoy, and others, conducted a well-attended Holiness Meeting. The Ensign's address was much appreciated. At night there was a meeting on the Market Square, the City Hall, and a Salvation Meeting in the Citadel, which was packed. After stirring addresses by the Ensign and Captain, five souls knelt at the Jerry-Seat. The Soldiers were in full uniform, and there danced for joy. Adj't. Huddleston has been on a short rest.—J. T. Wimble, Corps Capt.

Salvation Songs.

HOLINESS.

Tunes.—The Voice, 56; Song-Book, No. 400.

1 It is the blood that washes white,

That makes me pure within;
That washes the inward sinless right.

That cleanses from all sin.

Chorus:

Oh, the blood to me so dear.

It is the blood that sweeps away
The power of Satan's rod;

That shows the new and living Way,
That leads to heaven and God.

It is the blood that brings us right,

To holiness and heaven,
The source of victory and joy,

God's life for rebels given.

Tunes.—Nativity, 51; Mary, 48; Song-Book, 402.

2 My God! I know, I feel Thee mine,
And will not quit my claim,

Till all I have is lost in Thine,
And all renewed I am.

Jesus, Thine all-victorious love
Shall in my heart abode;

Then shall my feet no longer rove.

Rooted and fixed in God

Oh, that in me the sacred fire
Might now begin to glow,

Burn up the dross of base desire,
And make the no-muriae howl;

Oh, that I now from Heaven might tell,

And all my sins consume!

Come, Holy Ghost, for Thee I call,
Spirit of Burning, come!

FREE AND EASY.

Tunes.—My Sins Are Under, 250; Song-Book, 237.

3 God's anger now is turned away,

My sins are under the Blood;

My darkness has changed to day,

My sins are under the Blood.

Chorus:

My sins, my sins are under the Blood.

My soul is gone, and my soul is free;

My peace is made with God,

For the Lord has pardoned me.

My doubts are gone, the past forgiven,

My life is clear, I'm bound for Heaven.

How sweet the Lord's alone to be,

What joy to know He cleenest me.

In every step His hand doth lead,

And He supplies my every need;

HESCU WORK IN HONOLULU.

Situated in one of the most beautiful and picturesque parishes of Honolulu, the Moana Valley, stands The Army's splendid Home for unfortunate women and dependent children, at once a place of utility as well as ornament to this charming beauty spot.

The "Home" is well adapted, since additional to the main structure there are found dotted about the grounds over twenty acres in extent, several other buildings, all of a modern type, including a large laundry, special gymnasium, and dispensary, also a room for the disabled, two enclaves, servants' quarters, together with barns, sheds, etc., all built.

Since the "Home" was opened two years ago, 51 girls have been received, 20 of them having been sent to other homes, friends, or situations. Six have been married. Only four were in an satisfactory condition.

BAND CHAT.

Bandsman, Bandworn, of Princeton, travelled to the West on Sunday night.

Gold Band and Singers had their annual meeting at Victoria Park, Berlin. We had a fine day, and at night we gave a programme and song in the Berlin Hall to a large crowd. Since Major Jordan has taken hold all band meetings have been on the move in every direction.—Corr.

The Lippsfield Band has well earned for itself the title of "The Heavy Band" it having no fewer than four special engagements during the month of August.

On August 10th the Band was at a wedding at Yorkville.

On August 21-22 the Band is to entertain at a week-end camp-meeting at Newmarket, and on August 23 a great open-air entertainment in the city. "A present success for the Band's Fall Campaign," says the Band Secretary.

On a recent Sunday the Wingfield Bands made their first visit to Brussels, one of the east ports, and decided meetings which were to be decided successively in the Town Hall, beginning at about 10.30 a.m. The Band played round the town, and the music was highly appreciated. A concert meeting was held in the afternoon, consisting of brass, vocal, and instrumental selections, the strings being a great attraction.

The Chairman, Mr. Woods, spoke very eloquently, especially of The Army and its work, special mention being made of the rescue work. At 8 p.m. a great Selection Meeting was held, when Captain Pugmire drove home the message of salvation to the same audience.

Both meetings were well attended, the hall being packed to the doors at the night meeting. A return visit of the Band has been requested. Band Secretary.

A very pleasant gathering was held in the Bandroom of the Temple Band on Sunday afternoon, at the close of the meeting. It is usual for the bandmen to have their supper there, and order that they may be asked to turn out in full strength to the night open-air march, which, as is well known, always fails to throng Albert street with eager crowds.

But on this occasion the supper was of a special character, for two reasons: one being on that day Band Secretary George Burditt resigned his duties in connection with that position, and two, because the supper was provided at the expense of Bandsman Will Ford, who was celebrating a birthday anniversary, and who gave the supper and tank-offering to God and to his comrades for restored health and strength after a serious illness.

President Burditt presided, and Miss Captain Coombes, an old Officer of the Corps, was also present. Several short addresses, specializing the work of the Bandsman, who will remain a Bandsman, and Bandsman and Bandmaster Burditt, on behalf of the Bandmen, gave him a suitable momento of the occasion.

The new Band Secretary is Bandsman J. Matthews.

Obedience to the Light.

An Address by Mrs. General Booth.

"I beseech you, therefore, brethren, by the service of God, that you present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service." "And be not conformed to this world; but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect will of God."—Romans xii. 1, 2.

HAVE been thinking about the word in the text, "that"—That ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect will of God? That is to say, that ye must have a desire to do the will of God.

You would go up to it if today it were not for the condition;

body as the soul would have gone into Canada,

so no condition.

I never have anyone so foolish as not to want to be in, of course, and they want the honey and the milk;

but there are conditions,

and then, then,

you have it plain, and you have it in numbers of other passages equally plain.

There is nothing upon which the Holy Ghost has been more perticular than in laying down the conditions. And what are they? "And beseech you,

therefore, brethren, in the mercy of Jesus Christ that ye receive the forgiveness of sins. And every advance towards, the belief is even to get beyond the Holy Ghost when speaking in the flesh, "that you yourselves, ye, your bodies, your souls,

your minds, your spirits,

Ye—a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is a reasonable service." And is it not it? Is it too much? Is it more than we bargained for when He bought us? Is it more than we paid for? Is it my reasonable service?

And now, then, comes the conditions: "If he is not conformed to this world, but he is transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove."

If you could be transformed to him, and conformed to this world at the same time, I all know, it would be over, I all know, it would be over.

There are thousand of Christians instead of advancing in the cause of their conversion, because they would not comply with the good and acceptable and perfect will of God.

There was a condition. They had been proved at, if there was a condition; but they had not complied with. Then they did not receive and obey the light.

So there they stick, just where they were, or, rather, they have gone back.

Will now then, here is a con-ditor to this grand and glorious advance in the state of justification—where the believer is given power over sin, so yet he sometimes, through his inward workings, falls into it again;

people have not known a fall, or if they have, they won't accept it. Oh, like the oyster—they will not come down from their pride and high mightiness. But God will not be revealed to such souls, though they cry and pray themselves to skeletons, and go more and more into their flesh.

They will not fulfil this condition.

"By God's grace in this world, they will not forget their conformity even to the extent of a dinner party. A great many that I know will not forget their conformity even to the extent of visiting, and associating with ungodly people.

BURIAL OF THE MY'S FOUNDER

GENERAL WILLIAM BOOTH, BORN APRIL 10th, 1829

IN A FEW HOURS 27,000 MEN ON WAY TO THEIR WORK FILED PAST GENERAL'S BIER

Impressive Scenes as Men With Toolbags Marched Quietly Through the Hall, Bare-headed—Heavy, Cold Rain Unheeded by the Multitude of Mourners.

SHE following account of the closing scenes of The Army's first General and illustrious Founder, William Booth, has been culled from the cabled accounts of the proceedings at Hadley Wood, Clapton, and elsewhere. They form a succinct and vivid description of a historic event, although, of course Salvationists hungrily await the fuller accounts that will appear in our British contemporary. The present description of the burial of the late General we intend to supplement by writings from the Home press and photographs of the event.

We must pay a tribute to the Toronto press for its treatment of our late Leader. The editorials have been exceedingly generous with space, and sympathetic in their references. The obituary notices and references have occupied pages of each newspaper.

OUR AGED LEADER'S LAST MOMENTS.

GEN. BOOTH'S CALM PASSING.

Farewell Kiss of his Son on Brow of Dying Leader—Commander Eva Booth's Message in His Hand.

The following affecting story of the last moments of General Booth's life is told in the special number of the British War Cry:

"When Dr. Milne called shortly before 9 o'clock Tuesday night, he at once saw that the General was much lower than when he left the house six hours previously, but he still exchanged a few words. In company with the Chief of Staff, the doctor had retired from the room for a few minutes' consultation before going home. At night, when grave symptoms showed themselves, and both the Chief and the doctor were hurriedly summoned back to The General's side. This time they had the silent company of Miss Branwell, comprising the Chief of Staff and Mrs. Branwell Booth, Commissioner-in-Chief; Mr. Bellberg, Commissioner Howard, Colonel Kitching, Adjutant Valentine Booth, Sergeant Bernard Booth; and one or two members of The General's household.

"It was now evident that The General's feet were touching the cold waters of the river. His heart and pulse had become irregular. His breathing was faster, more irregular, and sometimes almost unnatural, though the coughing had now, for some hours, practically ceased.

"Perfect quiet reigned in the room, made more hushed and sacred by the feeling of approaching death, and the calm and supreme silence was only broken by the whisped ejaculations of the Chief. 'This is death, is it not, doctor?' said Dr. Milne referring to the chief death-throes.

"While longs of love fell down the cheeks of all in the room, the Chief advanced to the bedside, and, bending over the dying warrior's form, kissed his plied brow.

"Kiss him again, Chief," said Commissioner Lucy. "Kiss him for Eva, and as the Chief did so, he tenderly placed in The General's hand, which lay outstretched upon the bier-cover, a telegram from Commander Eva Booth, containing the words, 'Kiss him for me.'

"As the Chief held the hand which so lightly grasped the

THE LYING IN STATE OF GENERAL WILLIAM BOOTH

London, August 22.—General Booth's body is to be lying in state at the modest cottage at Hadley Wood, in Congregational Hall, Clapton, for the lying-in-state. A number of Officers of The Salvation Army have a guard of honor of the late General's bed-side since he died and will also officiate in the same way during the state at the Congress Hall.

Throughout the day a stream of callers passed into the General's modest residence at Hadley Wood. Nothing the exterior of the two-story villa indicated the passing of the blind were drawn down only in the windows. The small front door, including a single brass bolt-hole, lay The General's body side in a simple casket covered with the familiar red jersey. Above the bed draped the Army's flag, and at the head the flag. The General carried his visit to Calvary when he toured Palestine in 1905, other rooms of the house the business of The Army carried on as usual.

In preparation for the funeral, there is under consideration the suggestion that the coffin be conveyed to Abney Cemetery on a gun carriage, as symbolizing the military character of the great evangelist's work.

Queen-mother Alexandra to-day telephoned to General Booth's son and successor of General Booth, the following message:

"I beg you and all your family to accept my deepest most heartfelt sympathy in the irreparable loss you sustain have suffered in the death of your great, good, never-in-the-for-gotten father. It is a loss which will be throughout the whole civilized world, but, thank God, he will live forever."

(Signed) ALEXANDRA

Messages of condolence also have been received from King of Denmark; Gen. Louis Botha, Premier of South Africa; Lord Islington, Governor of New Zealand; Lord Rosebery, and many other prominent persons throughout the world.

Referring to the worldwide expressions of sympathy, General Branwell Booth says he does not believe that his son in moments of the highest inspiration, could have been anything so beautiful and spontaneous.

Miss Branwell Booth, Eva Booth, second youngest daughter of the late General Wm. Booth, commander of The Salvation Army, sailed to-day for the liner France, for a race across the Atlantic to be in time to attend her father's funeral next week.

The France is the only steamer that can get her into London in time for the ceremony. The France is due to arrive next Wednesday morning, and Miss Booth hopes to be on board Wednesday night.

Miss Booth has received a telegram from General

Booth, the new Leader of The Army, renewing her appointment as commander of the forces in America.

So great was the crowd which came today to view the body of the late General of The Salvation Army that it has been decided to open the hall at Congress Hall as early as half-past five to-morrow morning. In this way many working men will be given the opportunity to pay their respects before going to work with their accustomed.

A musical service of song went on throughout the day around the catafalque, many Cadets of The Salvation Army participating.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 24th

London.—No fewer than 27,000 workmen filed past the bier of the late General William Booth between half-past five and nine o'clock. The universal sorrow for the dear Evangelist among the labouring classes was very keen, and the scene was an intensely impressive one as the men marched bareheaded through Congress Hall, many of them carrying their tool-bags, through dampness drenched to the skin. Some of them were waiting some time before the opening of the doors of the hall, when the band was playing in front of the door. A heavy, cold rain was unceasingly beat on the windows. Of course, The Salvation Army had sheltered them at the door, and then they passed through the hall in silence.

There was a moving scene when Mrs. Booth-Helberg, the wife of the late General, in Bonnark, came into the hall with her family, who took places beside the catafalque and sang a reverent hymn.

London has been profoundly moved by General Booth's death, and yesterday the scenes of Clapton, where his body lies, were exceptionally touching. All classes, from the German Emperor, an elderly man, bearing a wreath from his imperial mausoleum, to aged children from the slums, filled in imperial robes, lay garlands about the bier. There were no wrappings of colour to save the white arm bands. The boy in the yellow uniform, who had brought some sunshine into the gloomy hall, was the only bright figure in the sombre touch of colour to the scene, but grief was the voluntary tribute of affection.

King's might well envy the rejoiced figure is receiving, at Clapton, Monday evening, the heavy rain, enough waited there time to enter and pay their last respects.

SUNDAY, AUGUST 25th

London.—Great crowds gathered outside Congress Hall all day, hoping to view the body of the late General. The hall, in which the late General was dressed in the founder's coat as he always wore, was open to show the words "Blood and Fire" on the coat. The coat of The Salvation Army emblazoned on the breast. The dead had the waken face contrasted with the serene face of the late portrait of the dead.

The usual caissons mob which gathered round a dead ruler or other prominent personage with great reverence. The attendance of those who passed on both sides of the road, most of them were workmen and housewives, a few moments from their busy day, say those who had gained the esteem of all and the showed their appreciation of the deceased. The efforts to uplift the poor were the German Embassy, a wreath of white lilies, forming the Imperial crest on the bier. It was accompanied by His Excellency the Ambassador, who had sent a wreath.

The hall was filled to its capacity of two thousand persons at each of the three services. The final tributes passed on the platform, these were Queen Alexandra and Emperor William II. The Queen paid a touching tribute to General Booth, to whom this nation owes its deepest debt of gratitude for the services he rendered in the regular Salvation Army services.

A wreath sent by Queen-Mother Alexandra was laid at General Booth's bier yesterday. The inscription reads: "To General Booth, my brother."

Salvation Songs.

HOLINESS.
Tune.—"Take Salvation."
O Thou God of every nation,
We call on Thy blessing
To us for full consecration,
Let Thine fire from Heaven fall.
Bless our Army,
With Thy power baptize us all.
Fill us with Thy Holy Spirit, Make our Soldiers white as snow
Save the world through Jesus' merit,
Batan's kingdom overthrow.
Bless our Army,
Send us where we ought to go.
Bless our General, bless our leaders,
Bless our Officers as well;
Bless Headquarters, bless our Officers,
Bless the foes of sin and Hell.
Bless our Army.
We will all Thy goodness tell.

Tune.—Eliacombe, 30; Song-Book, 30.
Come, with me visit Calvary,
Whereon the Lamb of God did stand,
His Blood now fills the fountain,
Its deep, 'tis full, 'tis wide.
He died from sin to sever our hearts and lives complete;
He saves and keeps for ever those living at His feet.
To the uttermost He saves.
God's great, free, full Salvation is offered here and now; Complete blood-bought redemption can be obtained by you.
Reach out your faith's hand, now claiming the cleansing flood will flow;
Look but just now, hallowing, His fulness you shall know.

PRAYER.
Tunes.—"Oh, for a Thousand Tongues"; B. J. 100; S. M. I., 230.
3. Oh for a thousand tongues to sing my great Redeemer's praise;
The glories of my God and King,
The triumphs of His grace.

My gracious Master and my God,
Assist me to proclaim,
To spread abroad through all the earth abroad.

The honors of Thy name.
He breaks the power of cancellation sin,
He sets the prisoner free;
His blood can make the foulest clean.
His blood avails for me.

Tunes.—"Oh, the Crowning Day is Coming"; M. S. I., 12; B. J. 21.
4. The day coming on a great day of rejoicing.
When all the raptured shall gather their Lord as King to crown:
All earth's sorrow and its sin
then disappearing,
Every heart will the Saviour
then own.

(Chorus:
Oh, the crowning day is coming,
Hallelujah!

From far distant lands battalions
now are marching,
Who will have part in the honors
which Jesus will bestow;
God be praised for all the souls that are now starting Swelling the hosts that lie before.

SALVATION.

Tunes.—For You I Am Praying
227; Song-Book, 60.

5. We have a message, a message from Jesus.

And time is now hastening in moments are few;

He's seeking poor sinners, make haste to receive him;

The Master is come and is called for you.

We have a message, a message

from Jesus.

A message of love to the poor

wearied heart;

The love of my Saviour, there's nothing like it;

The friendship of Jesus will never depart.

We have a message, a message

from Jesus.

A message of love to the poor

drunken soul;

The love of my Saviour will save all his fallen.

The Blood of my Saviour makes perfectly whole.

We Miss You.
